

A Novel Method for Production of Transformed Dihaploid Corn Plants

Abstract

The present invention relates to a novel system for generating transformed dihaploid corn plants. In particular, the invention relates to the production of haploid corn callus, transformation of that tissue, dihaploidization, and regeneration of transgenic plants. Transgenic dihaploid corn plants can then be easily produced.